Love & Kisses

Little girl's cardigan hoodie. Fairisle border on skirt, gathered into yoke; long sleeve and hood has smaller border of fairisle. 3 buttons close front on yoke only.

Almost Seamless

Inside, outside, upside down? Anything goes with this shrug. Use purl or knit side as outside or wear inside out. If the left edge is worn at the neck, it shapes itself into a rolled collar; if the right edge is worn at the neck, the shrug fits as a collarless jacket with a slightly flared lower back. Cables or other textured stitches worked along both edges of the piece would encircle the finished garment.

Made to Match

A big-fit football jersey in stockinette. Loose fitting, hip length pullover, sideways knit contrast yoke with vee neck shaping made by shortrowing. Add a hood and it's a perfect match for his reversible vest.

All-Aruffle

Rectangular shawl features a single buttonhole with optional floral flourish and three large buttons to alter the fit. Shortrowed ruffle is attached to rectangle as ruffle is knit to complete and finish edge.

NVee

Slightly A-line shell dressed up with a pretty lace edging, repeated at the Vee neck.

Cutaway armholes are finished with small, on-the-machine edge.

Dragonfly

Use your DAK skills to design a motif for thread lace and make a simple shawl much more interesting. This article teaches you how to design the motif, turn it into thread lace and apply it to a simple shawl pattern. As well as producing a nice drapery shawl, you could increase the number of repeats horizontally and/or vertically to make a summer throw for your couch.

Blue Ribbon

Me-Cozy
